Meeting Set In Vienna June 3 And 4

Both Governments
Issue Similar
Public Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev will hold informal, private talks at Vienna, Austria, the weekend of June 3-4. It will be their first meeting since Kennedy became president.

The official announcement was issued simultaneously Friday by the White House, at 10 a.m. Washington time, and by the Kremlin, at 5 p.m. in Moscow.

The key to what the meeting is about was summed up in near-identical wording from the two capitals.

"The President and Chairman Khrushchev understand that this meeting is not for the purpose of negotiating or reaching agreement on the major international problems that involve the interest of many other countries," the U.S. version said.

"The meeting will, however, afford a timely and convenient opportunity for the first personal contact between them and a general exchange of views on the major issues which affect the relationships between the two countries."

Visit London, Paris

Kennedy will fly to Vienna probably during the morning of June 3. He will make a two-hour flight from Paris, following his May 31, June 2 visit with President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Late on Sunday, June 4, the President plans to head home, stopping in London. In London he will lunch with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and dine with Queen Elizabeth II June 5 before leaving for Washington.

The President's wife, Jacqueline, will accompany her husband from Paris to Vienna and then to London and the dinner with the queen. The couple will attend the christening in London June 5 of the daughter of Prince and Princess Radziwill, Mrs. Kennedy's brother-in-law and sister. Mrs. Kennedy intends to stay on with her sister in London for several days.

Kennedy will get back to this country too late to keep a scheduled speaking date at West Virginia University June 5.

U.S. officials disclosed that Kennedy took the first step toward meeting Khrushchev. The secret negotiations began last February. The project cooled off as U.S.-Soviet relations deteriorated in March and April, but Khrushchev revived the idea early this month.

Informed Summit

The original U.S. idea was to get Kennedy into a session with Khrushchev because all other major world leaders had negotiated with the Kremlin chieftain except the new U.S. president. The plan was, and still is, for an informal chat, not a formal, negotiating summit conference.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is slated to go from Paris to Vienna with Kennedy, then return to the French capital to brief De Gaulle and North Atlantic Treaty Organization representatives on the Vienna outcome.

On Capitol Hill, senators and congressmen of both parties generally reacted with cautious approval. There was little optimism over the outcome, however.

CRITICAL—Actor Jeff Chandler, 42 was reported in critical condition after undergoing surgery Friday in Culver City, Calif., hospital, for a slipped disc in his back.

Movie Actor Jeff Chandler Is Critical

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — Actor Jeff Chandler is gaining strength although still in critical condition in his fight to recover from abdominal bleeding.

The movie he-man received 55 pints of blood by transfusion after an artery ruptured.

Culver City Hospital, in a mid-afternoon report, said he is able to resume oral feeding. He had been fed intravenously.

He underwent emergency surgery for 7½ hours late Thursday, barely clung to life during the night, then was reported "slightly improved" at midmorning.

Physicians said the next 36 hours will tell if the 42-year-old actor lives or dies.

The husky, prematurely gray actor hitchhiked across the country after World War II Army service—intent on becoming a film star.

He made it, playing leads in more than a score of films. Then, last month, while playing a starring role in a war movie, "The Marauders," he suffered a slipped disc in his back.

He finished the film with the help of pain-killing drugs. On his return here he was hospitalized for surgery on his back. An operation was performed Saturday.

His doctor said complications developed, and Thursday he started to hemorrhage.

His physician declined to give details of the complications, other than to say the stomach hemorrhage developed after the disc operation.

His ex-wife, Marjorie, was at the hospital as Chandler fought for his life. They were divorced in 1959 after a 13-year marriage.

JFK Signs Bill For 73 New Judgeships

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Friday signed into law a bill to create 73 additional federal judgeships. Ten are in circuit courts and 63 in district courts.

In circuit courts, an additional judge would be added in the third circuit, which includes New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the Virgin Islands, and one would be added in the fourth circuit, including the states of Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Among the additional district judgeships created, Maryland would get two and Pennsylvania seven, including one judgeship already existing but classified as temporary.

JFK To Address Cadets; Cancels WVU Appearance

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will speak at graduation exercises at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., June 7, the White House announced Friday.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy would return from his forthcoming trip to Paris, Vienna and London in time to keep the Annapolis engagement.

The announcement Friday was the first that Kennedy had accepted an invitation to speak at Annapolis.

Kennedy, however, had to cancel another speaking engagement, this one at commencement exercises at the University of West Virginia in Morgantown June 5.

USSR Agrees To Aid Cease Fire In Laos

Willing To Send Planes, Trucks To Truce Commission

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union agreed Friday to help in hurrying helicopters, planes and trucks to Laos for the control commission so it can enforce a truce. It was the first major action of the Geneva conference now four days old.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who has stalled the conference with demands for veto power over the commission's work, gave the go-ahead at the insistence of Canada.

Gromyko agreed with Foreign Secretary Howard C. Green of Canada that there was urgent need to get transport and communications equipment to the Indian-Canadian-Polish commission in the jungle kingdom.

"I think we have won a great victory," Green told newsmen. U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk also was pleased.

The 14-nation conference sent off a message to the three-power commission asking it to list its requirements.

The action came as foreign minister began to head for home, leaving the conference work to their deputies.

Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon told newsmen before he left for home that he understood the American, British and Soviet governments are ready to furnish equipment for the truce teams. Indian and Canadian pilots will fly Soviet planes.

Menon said he thought prospects are favorable for a solution in Laos, torn by rivalry between the royal Laotian government on one side and the Communist-led Pathet Lao and the neutralists of ex-Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma on the other.

Phipps Given Life In Prison

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Anne Arundel Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson Friday found 22-year-old William Bert Phipps guilty of the first-degree murder of a 70-year-old woman and sentenced him to life in prison.

Judge Michaelson, hearing the case without a jury, said Phipps may be transferred to Patuxent Institution for examination as a possible defective delinquent.

The Prince Georges County youth was charged with the slaying of Mrs. Grace M. Cochran of Riverdale, who disappeared from her home last August. Mrs. Cochran vanished after leaving for her job in Washington.

Mrs. Cochran's body was found in a wooded area near Gambrills in Anne Arundel County two months later. Phipps, already in the custody of Prince Georges County Police for another offense, was investigated and subsequently charged with the crime.

Bombing In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A bomb exploded Thursday night in front of the home of Mariano Ospina Perez, ex-president of Colombia. It was the sixth bombing in the last four weeks, all attributed to political differences.

Salinger said that Kennedy had agreed to speak at Morgantown later this year.

It is possible the President may make a report to the American people on his talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in his Annapolis address.

Kennedy is scheduled to meet with Khrushchev in Vienna on June 3 and 4.

The last President to speak at Naval Academy graduation exercises was President Eisenhower in 1958.

June Week ceremonies at the academy begin June 2 and end with graduation ceremonies in the Naval Academy Field House.

Diplomats Welcoming Conference

MOSCOW (AP)—The announcement that President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev will meet in Vienna was welcomed Friday by most Western diplomats in this Soviet capital.

It also should please the rank and file of Russians who a month ago were listening apprehensively to a hot exchange between the two world leaders over the issue of Cuba.

Kennedy apparently proposed a meeting in a letter U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson brought back from a trip to Washington early in March.

Khrushchev kept Thompson waiting a week as the premier made a farm tour of the countryside. Then he invited Thompson to meet him in the central Siberian town of Novosibirsk, where the ambassador delivered the letter.

It appears there was general agreement then on the idea of a meeting but conflicts between the two powers over Cuba, a nuclear test ban and Laos delayed matters.

The best interpretation here is that the President wants to show America's Western allies he is willing to talk with the Communist camp.

Russians, as usual, were very cagey on the subject officially. Privately they have been wanting to get back to the summery air of Camp David. They have blamed the U2 flight of Francis Gary Powers a year ago for the end of that Indian summer, although many Westerners feel that was only one of many factors.

Since then Khrushchev has fought — and seemingly won for the time being — a bitter dialectic battle with Communist China. A major result of that victory was approval by last November's world Communist meeting in Moscow to go ahead with Khrushchev's efforts to negotiate a military respite with the United States.

In addition to Lemnitzer and Burke, regular members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff are Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and Gen. George Decker, army chief of staff.

White's current two-year term ends in about a month and Burke's in August. Both are expected to be replaced. Lemnitzer started a two-year term as chairman last September.

Chiefs are nominated by the president, confirmed by the Senate and can be removed by the President.

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's chief architect indirectly acknowledges this Soviet capital has about the same housing space per person as it had at the time of the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The architect, M. Posokhin, wrote in the Communist party paper Pravda that the city has 34.3 million square meters of housing space which, he said, is three times more than before the Revolution.

But he made no mention of the fact Moscow has three times more people. The population in 1917 was 1,854,000. Now it is about six million.

Tosar told police he was sitting in his parked car when the thugs appeared.

Tosar is on a 30-day leave from the anti-Castro forces, visiting friends in Brooklyn. He escaped the invasion beach by boat.

Senator Gore Asks Removal Of Lemnitzer

Cuban Abortive Invasion Gets
Committee Airing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer's secret testimony on the Cuban invasion debacle Friday prompted Sen. Albert Gore, (D-Tenn.), to call for his removal as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

But Gore's assertion that Lemnitzer and his fellow chiefs should be ousted drew quick opposition from other members of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee which heard Lemnitzer's account of the military role in last month's abortive invasion.

Gore left the closed session of the Latin-American Affairs subcommittee before other senators and told newsmen: "We need a shakeup of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. I reached the conclusion on my own that we direly need a new chairman, as well as new members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

The Tennessean said he based his conclusion on Lemnitzer's testimony but would not disclose what the Army general said.

Later, the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., came from the hearing room and told reporters he has "complete confidence in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and their ability to protect the security of the country in connection with any military matter over which they have complete jurisdiction."

Of Lemnitzer's more than three hours of testimony, Morse said he was "as objective, correct, truthful and detailed as any witness I have heard in my years in the Senate."

Morse added he will recommend to the full Foreign Relations Committee that "we ask the President for the privilege of discussing with him the contents of record made to date" in the closed-door hearings at which State Department and Central Intelligence Agency chiefs also have been heard.

Kennedy Irked
There have been rumors that President Kennedy was irked by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for advising him that the invasion effort by anti-Castro Cubans was a militarily sound project. Lemnitzer and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, reportedly signed a memorandum to this effect.

The CIA also has come in for extensive criticism on the ground its preparations for the invasion were inadequate and its estimates of Cuban opposition to Prime Minister Fidel Castro were grossly inaccurate. The CIA has made no official, public answer to these charges but a responsible spokesman has defended its role in the affair and inferentially blamed the military.

In addition to Lemnitzer and Burke, regular members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff are Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and Gen. George Decker, army chief of staff.

White's current two-year term ends in about a month and Burke's in August. Both are expected to be replaced. Lemnitzer started a two-year term as chairman last September.

Riots Break Out Again In Algeria

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—European settlers and French riot police fought hand-to-hand here Friday night and early Saturday in a raging battle over the French-Algerian peace talks opening Saturday in France. The street fighting came after a mob of Europeans invaded the Swiss consulate and burned its files.

Police struck at the mob with rifle butts and fired tear-gas grenades.

The settlers, who massed in the center of the city to protest the peace talks with the Algerian nationalist rebels, fought back with showers of stones, bricks and other missiles.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

There was violence also during the night in Paris and in Algiers and Constantine, Algeria.

The outburst here started with the Swiss consulate invasion. The crowd threw the files and papers into the street and made a bonfire of them.

The Europeans obviously singled out the Swiss for the raid because Switzerland is being host to the Algerian Nationalist delegation for the peace talks opening Saturday across the Swiss border in Evian-les-Bains, France.

Planeload U.S. Citizens Arrives Home From Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A planeload of Americans reached U. S. soil Friday after frustrating weeks in Cuba. Prime Minister Fidel Castro's tight little island.

Since April 17, when anti-Castro forces stormed ashore in an abortive invasion, many of the Americans had lived in embassies in Havana. Some were jailed by Castro police.

A chartered Pan American World Airways plane brought 101 persons into Miami International Airport.

Among the passengers were Robert Berrellez, Associated Press newsmen jailed by Cuban militiamen, AP Caribbean chief Harold Mills and Ruby Hart Phillips of the New York Times.

Also on board was Martin Houseman of United Press International.

A number of Catholic priests were among the passengers. They included Father Lorenzo Seirill, founder of Villa Nueva University.

ROK President Resigns Post

Gives Blessing
To Nation's New Military Rulers

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Yun Po-sun gave his blessing to South Korea's new military rulers and announced his resignation in a humbly worded statement Friday. The grip of martial law tightened.

The military chiefs pushed a crackdown that included the arrest of almost 3,500 persons. Official announcements said prisoners included 2,500 hoodlums and 930 leftists considered potential Communist suspects. A security decree set up severe penalties for membership in what it broadly termed antistate organizations.

By accident or design, Yun's announced resignation clouded diplomatic relations between South Korea and its friends abroad, including the United States. Foreign envoys here have been accredited to Yun rather than to the fallen government of Premier John M. Chang.

Both American and British officials had said their recognition of the military takeover would be automatic because Yun remained chief of state.

Now Korea's allies may face the legal puzzle of whether to recognize Lt. Gen. Chang Do-yung, 38, chief of the junta that calls itself "the Supreme Council for National Reconstruction." U.S. spokesmen here opposed the coup.

Gen. Chang was seen entering the presidential palace, reportedly to try to persuade Yun to reconsider.

Yun is 63, an austerity-minded descendant of Korean nobility who was elected last August to a five-year term. Once commerce minister, he succeeded to the title but not the power of President Syngman Rhee, the old dictator ousted last spring.

Yun assumed blame for South Korea's failure to recover from the chronic poverty and other ills that touched off the successful uprising by chiefs of the armed forces Tuesday.

"I regret that I made so little contribution to the nation that a military revolution has occurred," Yun's statement said. "I feel nothing but sorrow when I think of the fact that I am greatly responsible for failing to provide peace of mind and tranquility."

"Fortunately God has blessed us and enabled the members of the military revolutionary committee to take over affairs of state without trouble. I cordially ask my beloved people to cooperate positively with their work."

Sardi said the effects of too drastic action would not stop in New York—"This will kill convention business in cities like Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Miami."

Sardi was one of a series of witnesses opposing Kennedy's recommendations. In general, they argued the present law permitting "ordinary and necessary" expenses is adequate if enforced and that businessmen should not unduly be deprived of discretion as to what is necessary to their operations.

Restaurants Oppose Tax Crackdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was told Friday it may create a desert of empty restaurant tables across the land if it follows President Kennedy's suggestions for a tax crackdown on expense account winning, dining and entertaining.

So grim a picture did New York restaurateur Vincent Sardi Jr. paint, that Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., asked: "Are you suggesting midtown Manhattan may become a distressed area that would have to seek aid under this legislation we have just passed, and have its people retrained for different jobs elsewhere?"

"That may sound like an exaggeration," Sardi replied, "but it really isn't."

He said a restaurant recession is already on, aggravated by "a drastic curtailment, a holding back" on the part of usually free spenders frightened by the mere possibility of a clampdown on expense account tax deductions.

Sardi said the effects of too drastic action would not stop in New York—"This will kill convention business in cities like Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Miami."

Sardi was one of a series of witnesses opposing Kennedy's recommendations. In general, they argued the present law permitting "ordinary and necessary" expenses is adequate if enforced and that businessmen should not unduly be deprived of discretion as to what is necessary to their operations.

Habeas Corpus Writ Restored 100 Years Ago

BALTIMORE (AP)—The 100th anniversary of a legal move that restored the writ of habeas corpus will be observed at a special ceremony in U.S. District Court here May 26.

The ceremony will commemorate the signing of a court order in Baltimore by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Roger Brooke Taney, setting aside President Lincoln's suspension of the habeas corpus provision of the Constitution at the start of the Civil War a few weeks earlier.

The case involved a man named John Merryman, arrested at his home outside Baltimore May 25, 1861, on suspicion he had been involved in blowing up Union bridges.

Merryman was held at Ft. McHenry in Baltimore by the fort's commandant, Brig. Gen. George Cadwallader. Justice Taney, sitting in Baltimore for the convenience of the commandant, ordered Merryman brought into court. Cadwallader refused, arguing that Lincoln had suspended the writ of habeas corpus for the public safety.

Taney then ruled it was illegal to hold the prisoner because the President had no constitutional right to suspend the writ. In case of invasion or rebellion, the only body empowered to suspend the writ is Congress, the justice said. Taney's ruling has been cited many times as a precedent in cases involving the rights of a prisoner.

Martin Gets Contract For Moon Landing

Space Agency Requests Study

BALTIMORE (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration Friday awarded the Martin Co. a $75,000 contract to study the problems of landing men on the moon and establishing a camp.

The study, which the company expects to complete in three months, is an extension of planning for Project Apollo, to orbit a three-man capsule around the moon. Preliminary studies of the Apollo project were completed earlier this week.

Martin calls the latest project Earth-Lunar Transport, and says it will involve getting men to the moon and back, quartering three men on the moon for 30 days and later establishing a permanent moon base for up to 12 men.

The company says time and money estimates for actual completion of such a mission still are very much in doubt. A spokesman said national space costs for the next ten years have been estimated as high as $50 billion, a figure which presumably would include the moon base.

A key assignment of feasibility study, Martin said, is to determine the types and number of stages of rocket boosters necessary to land a three-man capsule on the moon and bring it back to earth.

A moon city consisting of a collection of collapsible huts resembling a field of mushrooms is envisioned by Martin. The company says a major danger on the moon will be the occasional eruption of a solar flare during a storm on the sun. The flare would produce hazardous radiation on the moon, which is not protected by an atmosphere.

Revised SBA Plan To Aid Maryland

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., predicted Friday the Small Business Administration's revised loan policy will help labor surplus areas in Maryland materially.

"I am delighted," Butler said after conferences with agency officials, "that the SBA has recognized the potential dangers of its old policies and has decided that businesses in labor surplus areas will receive loans if they are located in such an area at the time of the loan's approval or disbursement—not only at its disbursement."

"If the change had not been made," Butler explained, "a business would have gone ahead with building plans because it was in a distressed area. Then a year or two later, when the project was finished, it might have learned that it was no longer in a distressed area and was not eligible for the lower interest at 4 per cent. The difference in the loan interest is enough to mean the difference between being in the red and in the black."

Garrett Home Damaged By Fire

The second floor of a five-room frame house in the Grantsville area was badly damaged by fire Thursday night.

Mrs. Richter surmised that defective wiring caused the blaze which originated in a closet. Clothing of the family of six was destroyed, along with furniture. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

Firemen said a pet dog was found dead in the house, smothered by smoke. The four Richter children were not at home at the time.

Richter was discharged a week ago from a hospital where he had an operation following an accident.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband loves to dance. I don't care for it. An old flame of his (now married) makes a B-line for whenever they get together and there's music. They dance together all evening. I sit there like a dumb-bunny making small talk with the old flame's husband.

The other night they danced together for three solid hours. Between sets they'd go to the bar and not even return to the table. I got fed up, finally, and walked on to the dance floor and yanked him a glass by the necktie. His glasses fell off but they didn't break.

Now he's mad at me and says I'm no lady. How much is a wife supposed to take anyway? Who was wrong?—MELVA

DEAR MELVA: It sounds like a draw to me. A man shouldn't leave his wife stranded for three hours but you shouldn't have yanked him off the floor. Improve your dancing and reduce your boiling point.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 33 and have been going with a bachelor for five years. Just when I think everything is set and start to make plans for our wedding, something happens.

Harry has a genius for getting himself into business deals that keep him broke. The guy is 44, handsome, fascinating, nobody's fool, and we like the same things. He is also a target for every phony who passes through town. Two years ago when we had our wedding date set he got into a deal with some people who imported semi-precious stones. They were guaranteed to look like diamonds only you had to heat them up every six months or they'd get cloudy. He went for his total savings on that one so we had to postpone the wedding.

Last April I was all set to be a June bride. In May somebody sold Harry a salt mine that belonged to the state of Utah. He was so broke after that deal that I had to lend him money to live on.

He says he loves me but he refuses to get married until he can assume the financial responsibilities of a husband. From the way things are going I'm beginning to wonder if that day will ever come. How much longer do you think I'll have to wait?—BIG PEARL

DEAR BIG: Probably forever. Some people are afraid of marriage but they don't know it. Their fears are below the conscious level and they keep the truth well hidden—even from themselves. They make plans, then get themselves into a fix which knocks the plans in the head. When this pattern is repeated over and over, you have a non-marrier on your hands.

DEAR ANN: This is a very busy day for me but I can't do anything until I say a few words to "Emancipated Ella." She's the gal who got mad because you said nice women don't hang around bars alone. Poor Ella said she hated to go home and look at four walls every evening. Her husband traveled—remember?

Just what kind of company does she think she's going to meet in bars? I don't care whether Ella lives in a big city or a small town—the men who decorate the gin-mills are all alike. And who does she think THEY are hoping to meet? Whistler's mother? I laughed when I read Ella's cry of outraged innocence. She said if a jerk made a pass she gave him the fish eye. Yeah? If she doesn't want passes why doesn't she go home after work?—AC - DC

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. TUT: Tell the King that cleaning the bathtub after one's self is no more than good manners.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experience of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

County Board Receives Data On Schools

The statistical data requested by County Commissioner John T. Mason from the Allegheny County Board of Education was submitted yesterday by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

Webster submitted a letter with the voluminous report listing the major items which are needed to eliminate overcrowding in certain schools.

Parkside Elementary School in LaVale has an average of 37.5 pupils per room and there is a strong possibility of rapid growth in the enrollment in the 1961-62 school year.

Allegheny High School is far in excess of the 30 average students per room which is desirable. There are six teachers who have no home rooms and there will be more next year.

Gephart Elementary on Frederick Street, has a classroom in the basement, one in the auditorium and one in a small health room.

Fort Hill High School conditions duplicate those at Allegheny on overcrowding. Ten teachers without home rooms and there will be 11 next year. A total of 176 students in the seventh grade who should attend Fort Hill have been kept at Pennsylvania Avenue School.

Beall High in Frostburg has not been able to accommodate 166 students of the seventh grade who have been kept at Beall Elementary.

An addition at Parkside School would eliminate the overcrowding and take care of anticipated growth for some time. An addition at Gephart would solve the problem there.

The erection of two junior high schools in the Cumberland area would eliminate the overcrowding at Allegheny and Fort Hill.

The two junior highs would also permit classification of children into well-defined age and development brackets and also bring the students per room to 30, which is termed satisfactory.

An elementary school in Frostburg would provide for separation of the elementary, junior and senior high students into better age brackets and eliminate overcrowding.

Commissioner Mason said he asked for the data so that he could submit it to the County Planning and Zoning Commission for recommendation as to school locations. It was brought out by Commissioners John J. Rowan and William A. Wilson that the Board of Education has full jurisdiction over location of schools.

Couple To Speak Here Sunday

A young couple bicycling across the country will speak Sunday at 11 a. m. in Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hylton, enroute from Virginia to their home in Tonasket, Wash., after a year and a half in Brethren Volunteer Service.

Their assignment was to help train workers in churches in mountain communities in Virginia and North Carolina that were without the services of a pastor.

They deferred taking the bus trip home, choosing instead to make the 4,000 miles by bicycle.

Along the way they are visiting various churches to tell of the program of Brethren Volunteer Service and to point out other aspects of the church's service program.

Tours Of ABL Facilities Set Today And Tomorrow

Products and work methods of the space age, officially ushered in for the United States just a few weeks ago by Navy Cmdr. Shepherd, will be exhibited to some 10,000 residents of this area today and Sunday.

The occasion will be the 15th anniversary of the Hercules Powder Company operation of Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory, for which officials of the plant have extended invitations to ABL workers, their families and friends to participate in a guided tour of the Space Age facility.

The Pinto plant, officials point out, in little more than a decade has progressed from a small research center primarily interested in only a limited number of projects, to one that provides research and development for a wide variety of large, reliable and essential propulsion units for this nation's missile program.

The invitation-only tour will include a close-up view of the ABL-designed and developed Antares (X-254) rocket motor. Officials said that since the final products of the Pinto plant are rocket motors and solid propellants, the tour is designed to give the guests an insight on how such items are developed.

ABL spokesmen said the tour of the plant will be made realistic by the use of sound and sight effects. A number of the buildings to be visited are "walk-through" areas because of security reasons, it was explained, but despite this the tour parties will be able to see some of the most advanced equipment available to Space Age scientists.

Local Young Men Hurt In Crash

Two persons were injured, and one of them hospitalized, early yesterday when the car in which they were traveling wrecked on Bedford Street at the Linden Street intersection.

Officer J. P. Nelson, who investigated, said the young men were Eugene D. Cramer, 24, Browning Street, and Jack Long, 23, 303 1/2 Pulaski Street.

Cramer, driver of the car, was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for lacerations of the forehead, while Long, a passenger, was admitted for treatment of deep cuts on the forehead and legs.

Officer Nelson said Cramer lost control of his car after colliding with a parked vehicle. He was charged with reckless driving.

Frederick Commissioner Congratulated By Board

The Allegheny County Board of Commissioners yesterday instructed James G. Stevenson, board clerk, to write a congratulatory letter to C. Burton Cannon, who was recently appointed to membership on the Frederick County Board of Commissioners.

Cannon has been clerk to the Frederick board for many years and was named to fill a vacancy caused by the death of one of the board members.

Signs on his English-type bicycle urge support of Senate Bill 1197, which would alter the rulings of the Interstate Commerce Commission in respect to certain transportation freight charges.

Perrine, a disabled war veteran, began his trip in Kansas City on Easter Sunday, but not on bicycle. He originally planned to walk the distance, but when he learned of President Kennedy's scheduled trip to France, he decided to continue on bicycle after 350 miles on foot, in order that he reach Washington while the chief executive is in the country.

County Gets Proposal To Utilize Land

An offer has been made to the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners concerning the utilization of the county farm property for raising of crops and livestock.

Clarence Warnick said he would like to raise cattle, pigs and also plant corn, tomatoes, onions, potatoes and other truck crops which the county would share.

The commissioners made no decision but told Warnick they would look into the proposal and if feasible would draw up a contract.

The Mt. Savage Fire Company was granted permission to close off a street near the fire hall from 6 p. m. to midnight during the time the firemen will sponsor a carnival.

Sarah Deremer was named a part-time practical nurse for the County Infirmary.

Letters were received from a group of Potomac Park residents and the Bowling Green Fire Company concerning a surface water drainage problem in Potomac Park. The board took no action in the matter but will investigate.

Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein was granted permission to have bids drawn up for placement of a porch on the west side of the County Jail as part of his quarters. The sheriff and family have residence in a part of the jail building.

Commissioners John J. Rowan and William A. Wilson voted for the project and Commissioner John T. Mason against. When Mason voted against the plan the sheriff commented that another porch project costing about $4,000 was authorized recently. The jail porch would cost less than half that amount the sheriff said. He was referring to a new porch for the County Library Annex building.

SS. Peter, Paul PTA To Install Officers

The Parent-Teacher Association of SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School will meet Sunday at 2 p. m. in the parish hall.

P. Raymond Shaffer, retiring president, said new officers will be installed to serve next year and plans will be discussed for the PTA's annual summer picnic. Shaffer said all members are urged to attend and meet the new officers. Classroom visitation will follow the business meeting.

Commissioners Invited To Attend Exhibit

An invitation was received yesterday by the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners to attend a two-day exhibit being sponsored by the Cumberland Section of the Instrument Society of America.

The exhibit will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club on May 24 and 25 from noon until 10 p. m. Machinery with automatic controls will feature the exhibit.

Theologians And Doctors Queried On Increasingly Complex Ethical Questions

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Should an unborn infant's life be sacrificed to save the mother? Is it proper to use tranquilizers even though they alter an individual's natural personality? "Yes," in both cases, say most of a group of theologians, doctors and other scholars queried in a new study.

In such questions today, however, moral and medical factors often are interwoven.

Doctors, with new skills and drugs for influencing human life, face increasingly complex ethical questions about using these powers.

"Whether he wants it or not, the physician has to make judgments of value," says noted scientist Rene Dubos of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

To try to get the best thinking on these problems, the Lutheran Academy for Scholarship has obtained answers to lengthy questionnaires from 400 doctors, clergymen, professors and others of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod.

The findings are the basis for discussions at a symposium on medical ethics this weekend at Concordia College in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Here is the majority consensus on some of the issues:

Tranquilizers, even though they change personalities to a greater or lesser degree, are useful and should be continued, but under medical guidance.

A therapeutic abortion is justifiable when continuance of the pregnancy would "harm, shorten or terminate the life of the mother."

But an abortion is not justifiable because of clear evidence that the offspring is going to be mentally or physically defective or both.

If a patient is incurable and nearing death, he should be told the truth, even though he doesn't ask it, and even though relatives object.

Artificial insemination to obtain pregnancy in a woman is wrong if the semen comes from a donor, but proper if the semen comes from the husband. A strong minority felt it is proper, in either case.

Euthanasia, inducing death for incurable patients in great pain, is wrong.

In a hopelessly dying patient, ordinary means should be used to sustain life and relieve suffering, but extraordinary means—such as heart stimulators and oxygen—should not be used.

Transplants of eyes and other organs from the dead to the living is proper.

Sterilization is proper in the case of a mentally defective person to deprive morons, idiots and imbeciles of the ability to procreate. But it is wrong in the case of parents to halt childbearing for financial or other reasons.

When "joined twins" are born, it is proper to sacrifice one in separating them to save the other, but it is wrong to separate them if they both could live if left joined.

When hermaphrodites—both male and female—are born, surgical procedures to correct the abnormal "sex mixture" are proper.

In case of an adult who has emotionally reversed his physical sex, scholars were closely divided—181 yes and 172 no—on whether it is right to use surgery to make the person's physical makeup match his new emotional makeup.

There was an even closer division—184 yes and 185 no—on whether abortion is proper when a girl has become pregnant through forceful rape.

Most of the scholars said they believe in "faith healing," if not in "faith healers." They consider hypnosis an "ethically valuable tool in medicine."

Conflicting with Roman Catholic teaching, they held that cremation is proper.

The majority also held that it is proper for husband and wife to have intercourse simply for pleasure, and to use contraceptive devices to limit births for economic reasons.

The majority also consider homosexuality and alcoholism as sicknesses.

What is the story behind this "For Sale" sign? Is it just a house that's for sale, or is this a tale of happiness or sorrow—of success or defeat?

Let's hope this story has a happy ending! But this isn't a world of make-believe we live in. God made us human beings, not puppets. He has given us minds and bodies, nerves and muscles—and weakness as well as strength.

Maybe the story behind this house is a happy one. Maybe it's a sad one. Regardless, the people who lived here, like all of us, will be able to accept both good fortune and bad if there is yet another house in their lives.

The House of the Lord, the Church, has been built to endure through the ages. Here we will always have a home—during our lives on earth as well as throughout eternity.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

What If ICBMs Wouldn't Work?

The paragraph that follows is fiction—so far. But the House Armed Services Committee suggests that it might be what could happen.

Russia decides to launch a nuclear war on the United States. She releases scores of inter-continental ballistic missiles aimed at American cities. American warning systems spot them coming, and word goes out to missile bases in the U. S. and abroad to retaliate. The Russian missiles never go off. The intense cold of outer space and the intense heat generated by friction on re-entry into the atmosphere turn them into duds. U. S. retaliatory missiles also prove to be duds, for the same reason. The war thus started is fought out with conventional weapons.

The committee does not say that this will happen, merely that it may. Its members are far from convinced that ICBMs on either side will function in actual combat as tests without nuclear warheads suggest. And they are worried about the relative capacity of the U. S. to fight Russia in a war without ICBMs. For that reason they recommend the production of B-52 and B-58 bombers past the present cutoff dates next year.

Missile scientists disagree. If both sides can shoot a man out of the atmosphere and bring him back unharmed, these scientists say, they can do likewise with a nuclear warhead. This sounds reasonable. But it failed to convince committee members in their jurors' capacity; they retained a reasonable doubt.

What is involved is the old question of balance in the military establishment, on which even experts disagree. The trouble is that the free world must be prepared for whatever comes without enough second sight to know what is coming.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Korea

The United States met the first serious defeat in its history in Korea. General Douglas MacArthur, our most distinguished military leader, was not permitted to bring that war to a victorious conclusion. In fact, he was dismissed from his post, after a glorious career because his judgment of the Korean War differed from that of the politicians in Washington. He was instructed not to invade the enemy's sanctuary in Manchuria. The Chinese Communists, who heretofore had counted for very little as a military force, gained "face" throughout Asia.

The Korean War was euphemistically called a United Nations police action and so far as the record goes, the United States was one of several nations involved in that engagement. But the fact is that we put up most of the effective troops and all of the money and, so far as the East of Asia is concerned, it was the United States and not the United Nations which lost prestige as a result of the Korean War.

Every nation reviewed its own relations with the United States. The question asked was if Red China could defeat the United States, what has become of American strength and power? The neutrality which followed often meant that the balance of friendship favored Soviet Russia.

The War ended in the division of Korea at the 38th Parallel between South and North Korea. South Korea, in many respects, became dependent upon the United States; North Korea became a part of Red China.

On April 7, 1960, Korea's heroic President was cast aside as the result of a students' strike. In the Far East, a students' strike is not unusual. It is an expression of the will of the people against the government. The complaint against Rhee was not that he had become too old to govern, but that he tolerated corruption by his supporters.

Corruption in East Asian countries is not taken very seriously unless there is hunger and famine. The salaries of officials are ridiculously low, the cost of holding office is high; it is expected that each position includes perquisites. In fact, in an older China (and Korea as well) many important official positions were purchased, the legitimate graft being so great. And even in my time in China, which was not so long ago, it was expected that an upstanding official would do well by himself and his family and nobody criticized him for it, except a few foreigners who did not know better.

It has therefore been assumed that the students' strike in South Korea, which succeeded in eliminating Syngman Rhee, was fomented by influences other than Korean. Not only was Red China suspected but also the United States which desired a younger man than Rhee, one less arbitrary, more "democratic." So we supported John Chang as Premier.

Now, a military junta has taken over. It seeks an honest government. In East Asian countries, military men are notoriously not honest. The Oriental expression is that if one is very near to a greasepot, the grease is likely to rub off. Therefore no old China hand is going to take seriously the contention that a military junta seeks honesty. It may seek a better division of the spoils or all of it, but never honesty. It is not a local custom.

Therefore one must seek further. There can be no question but that Red China desires an amalgamation of South and North Korea with Communist North Korea prevailing. This would make Korea a satellite of Red China. It would immediately imperil Japan which can be attacked from the Korean Peninsula without any geographic interference.

It is the strategy of the Soviet Universal State to keep the United States engaged in endless tribulations. The Chinese Communists hold that war between the West and the Socialist countries is absolutely inevitable and even essential if Communism is to prevail universally.

Therefore, Red China is actively teasing the United States into an angry gesture. Laos is a Red Chinese enterprise; South Vietnam is another; Korea is another. At some point, the United States will become sufficiently irritated. Then Soviet Russia will have no alternative but to follow the lead of Red China. It is a risky gamble, but Mao Tze-tung must do something because the dissatisfaction in his country is excessive. The Chinese people have at no time had less to eat.

Mr. K's Arrogance Menaces Meeting With JFK

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS A great deal of water, most of it turbid and destructive, has flowed over the dam since President Kennedy first decided, last February it might be useful to meet Nikita S. Khrushchev face to face and alone.

As then reported in this space, the policy makers who proposed the meeting wanted the two men to meet for the sole purpose of "taking one another's measure," with no intention of negotiating individual issues. Vienna was then chosen as the best neutral meeting ground. And it was then decided that the meeting could not take place before the newly inaugurated President had "touched base" with Prime Minister Macmillan, Chancellor Adenauer, and President de Gaulle.

The plan conceived in February will have been carried out in full when the de Gaulle-Kennedy talks end here in Paris. The other allies have already been duly assured that individual issues will not be negotiated when Kennedy goes on to foregather with Khrushchev. They have been far from overjoyed, but they have shown fewer symptoms of concern than they showed when they were rather abruptly informed that President Eisenhower meant to meet alone with Khrushchev at Camp David. Altogether, it would appear on the surface that every detail had been foreseen and provided for in the White House talks that took place when the U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, Jr., came home for consultation. Yet one key feature of the present situation was emphatically not foreseen.

What was not foreseen was the effect on Khrushchev of the combination of Soviet successes and Western, and especially American, setbacks in these last months. These seem to have encouraged a mood of extreme arrogance in the Soviet leader. On this point, there is a high degree of mournful unanimity among the ablest Western experts charged with studying the climate in the Kremlin.

It is deeply disturbing that the mood of a single individual—and an individual at that who believes Gov. Rockefeller makes President Kennedy's policy decisions for him—should constitute a grave potential menace to the whole world. But if it is correct that Khrushchev is enjoying a spasm of complacent arrogance, this mood is a menace of the gravest sort.

Arrogance, obviously, leads to overboldness and other kinds of miscalculation. The still-unresolved Berlin crisis offers Khrushchev the strongest temptation to be overbold. He can only too easily take steps at Berlin, confidently expecting no Western riposte, which will force the strongest sort of Western riposte. For this reason, the ominous parallel between Khrushchev today and Hitler in the late thirties is beginning to be heard from experts who have always taken a calm view.

Certainly it is not surprising if Khrushchev is now in an arrogant mood. President Kennedy himself told Prime Minister Macmillan, at Key West, that the Laos crisis was not only important because of its effects in Southeast Asia, but also and above all important because Khrushchev must regard Laos as the first test of the toughness and determination of the new American Administration. If this analysis was sound, then Khrushchev must consider that Kennedy has failed to pass the test; for Laos has clearly been written off in Washington.

In the last Eisenhower years, one of the most alarming factors in the world situation was Khrushchev's apparent conviction that his chief adversary, the President of the United States, was an amiable but basically feeble old gentleman. On a semi-public oc-

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SPACE LEAP — Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard's leap into space came just in time to lift official Washington out of deep gloom. To officials here, everything seemed to have gone wrong in recent weeks, starting with Laos, then Cuba, then the Russian Yuri Gagarin's orbital flight around the world.

However, Shepard's brief flight to 115 miles above the earth appears to have dispelled much of the gloom in Washington. And, inasmuch as Washington is a mirror of the nation, it can be assumed that spirits country-wide have been similarly lifted.

Next to the feat itself, Kennedy administration officials are proudest of the decision to permit television, radio and press coverage of the event as it transpired. It was by far the most dramatic demonstration of its kind ever brought to the public of the United States and the rest of the world. And it paid off by emphasizing official confidence in the astronaut's hardware and also in a free society's ability to witness and understand a failure, had it occurred.

The public shot that made Shepard the first American astronaut served to recall the secrecy under which Russia conducted her own experiment and the doubts that have been raised about the truthfulness of Soviet claims.

No one in official Washington questions the accuracy of Soviet claims, yet the matter of truthfulness crops up from time to time, inspired by several Soviet contradictions in reporting the Gagarin flight. The very existence of these doubts justifies the administration's decision on publicity, for no one in the world can cast any questions concerning the American feat.

The U. S. still has a long way to go to catch up to the Russians in space techniques, but the Russians have a longer way to go to catch up to American candor and demonstrations of faith in its own people. Perhaps nothing in recent years has more vividly delineated the differences in the attitude of officials in a dictatorship and a free society.

Nerve Pressure Causes Temporary Paralysis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Prolonged pressure may injure a nerve, leading to temporary muscular weakness and paralysis. Most of us have experienced the sensation at night when sleeping. We are awakened by numbness and tingling and have to roll over or get out of bed to alleviate the discomfort.

Saturday night paralysis was common in the early part of the century when saloons allowed toppers to sleep it off. They passed out with the head on the upper arm, which was thrown over the back of the chair. These men were too drunk to feel the numbness and tingling from the pinched nerve but on awakening hours later they were unable to use the affected arm.

Dr. A. A. Marinacci of Los Angeles, who collected a group of unusual causes of nerve injury, reported his findings in a recent issue of Industrial Medicine and Surgery. The facial nerve, for example, emerges from the skull through a small opening just in front of the ear.

The habitual placement of the phone receiver against the ear may create enough pressure on the nerve to produce paralysis of the facial muscles on that side (Bell's palsy). This is most likely to occur among workers who use the telephone for several hours, particularly those who rest the base of the phone on the shoulder to free the hands for writing.

The counterpart of Saturday night paralysis is now found in TV watchers. They rest their elbows on the arms of the chair with pressure on the nerves in the region of the crazy bone. Similarly, the nerve passing through the calf of the leg is pinched when one leg is rested on the shin bone of the other.

One of the most unusual injuries occurred in a woman who drove a car barefoot. Pressure on the sole of the foot from the brake pedal injured the tissues surrounding the nerve in that area. Other cases included carpal tunnel syndrome, which stretched the sciatic nerve in their work and had car-

AMA Organizes Secret Campaign To Defeat Medical Aid For Aged Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A secret strategy meeting of the American Medical Association held in Chicago recently worked out a careful campaign to defeat President Kennedy's program of medical care for the aged. State and county medical groups will carry the brunt of the work, it was decided, to give the campaign a "local" look. However, the AMA itself will supervise all activities — advertising, speech-writing, publicity — from national headquarters in Chicago.

A major decision of the secret Chicago meeting was to refrain from personal attacks on President Kennedy, lest this backfire. AMA chiefs decided, if possible, not even to mention his name, but to direct their fire at Wilbur Cohen, Assistant Secretary of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department.

To insure against any slip-ups, the AMA has quietly distributed a "campaign kit" to local medical groups, containing detailed instructions on what they are expected to do to defeat the Kennedy program.

This column has obtained one of the confidential "kits" and can reveal some of the more interesting contents, as follows:

Letters to Congress — "They (members of Congress) should be persuaded to stand firm against the social security financing mechanism . . . the volume of letters and the diversity of people writing them is the important casion in Moscow, he even described Eisenhower as a man who was very nice no doubt, "but only fit to run an orphanage."

One of the reasons the foreign offices of the Western allies took hope when President Kennedy assumed office was the general belief that Khrushchev would feel more respect for his new chief adversary that he had felt for Eisenhower. But if Kennedy does not now seem to Khrushchev any more formidable than Eisenhower seemed, the danger today is greater than ever. For one must also consider the added, inevitable influence on Khrushchev of recent events.

The strongest proof that this danger is the opposite of imaginary was given by Khrushchev in his recent major speech — which was ironically welcomed as a hopeful utterance in most quarters in the West. These fatuous hopes were aroused because Khrushchev went rather far than he has done before, in his assurances to the Communist faithful that there was no need to fear a war. Unhappily, these assurances needed to be read in the content of Khrushchev's equally emphatic promises that the Communist cause would triumph everywhere without a war.

What he was really saying, in other words, was that the non-Communist half of the world either lacked the means or lacked the will to resist Communism's resistless advance. When an enemy publicly announces that he will defeat you without having to bother to fight, the announcement ought to cause deep concern. Nothing could be less reassuring, if you think about it.

This does not mean for one moment that the Western analysts of Soviet behavior have changed their opinion about Khrushchev's extreme reluctance to risk a major war. They still hold this opinion, but they have also begun to think that Khrushchev's increased arrogance may lead him to risk a major war without knowing what he is doing. This is the problem which the President must somehow solve, and solve, furthermore, in the somber shadow of Laos and Cuba. It will not be an easy task.

thing. Telephone calls, telegrams, and personal visits are also important."

If a Congressman is already against the administration's health bill, then doctors are instructed to get "lay friends to commend him for his opposition and urge him to stand firm." If he is for the bill — "don't threaten him; it won't do any good." If he is neutral — "use all means possible of convincing him. Point out forcefully why the social security tax route is bad medicine. Keep the door open to further correspondence."

News Editorials — "For the purpose of obtaining favorable editorial comment, a local committee should meet with editors of local papers to express Medicine's position on for-and-type (administration) legislation and explain what is being done to solve the problems of the aged locally. . . . letters to people's columns of local papers are an effective way to mould public opinion."

Nonmedical Shock Troops — County medical societies are urged to "begin immediately" to organize professional and business people — local bankers, manufacturers, retailers, local broadcasters, civic and luncheon groups, etc. — against the administration's bill and encourage them to write Congress.

Advertising — The AMA provides a wide variety of suggested newspaper ads, from one to three columns, plus matrices, denouncing the bill as "socialized medicine." County medical groups are urged to induce business firms to insert these ads piggyback in their regular commercial advertisements.

Speeches and Press Releases — The AMA kit also includes a remarkable collection of canned speeches and press releases for local use, including a "suggested speech for nonmedical audiences." A suggested press release recounts a ripping attack on the administration's bill by a local doctor, leaving a blank space for inserting the name of the doctor who delivers the canned speech.

Five different "suggested" radio scripts also are provided, with blank spaces for the names of doctors reading them on the air. The scripts are interpolated with "pauses," as well as underscored words which doctors are supposed to emphasize while lambasting "socialized medicine."

Cleaning Up The Airwaves — Despite FCC chairman Newton Minow's warning against TV violence, the networks are going ahead with a full schedule of gut-spillers for next season. Already they have lined up over 30 hours of cowboys, crime, and action out of the 73-1/2 hours of prime viewing time.

Meanwhile, parents across the nation are registering their protests with the Federal Communications Commission. These complaints will be used against Radio-TV stations when their licenses come up for renewal.

Typical of the national outrage against the gutspillers is a petition to the FCC from the Congressional Church of Campbell, Calif.

"We the undersigned," the petition declares, "are Christian parents who are concerned about the increasing amount of violence pictured on television. The code of the jungle and the underworld far outweighs the code of Christian conduct in the indirect teaching of many programs. We believe that television is weakening the moral fibre of our country by making violence commonplace."

From Mrs. Hazel Ferguson of Holmes, Pa., comes this plea: "For god's sake, please do something about the TV shows. It's no wonder our children are turning bad. They are learning from television. Two-thirds of the shows are murder, guns, violence, robbing."

Another letter, from C. Arnold of Chico, Calif., complains: "Children today are educated on how to become criminals by watching such programs as Lock Up, Line Up, Day in Court, Verdict is Yours — Murders in every other picture."

W. H. Upham of Milwaukee, Wis., protests against the "glorification of crime." He would not permit his children to see a program, he says, which advertises "authentic portraits of famous frontier badmen."

A Seattle, Wash., housewife whose signature is illegible asks: "Why can't some of our programs be switched around so the children won't be watching all this violence? It's pretty disgusting to hear my 3-year-old son using words like 'killing,' 'murder,' and 'stabbing.'"

From Charles McNeely of California comes this complaint: "Wild West shows on our TV channels with drinking, smoking, gambling, fighting, shooting, killing are brain-washing our children and leading them deeper and deeper into crime."

These are typical of the letters now pouring in to the commission which is supposed to regulate the airwaves but has done little about it in the past.

At Large With Liebling

By John Crosby

The three most gigantic things in the world I've encountered in a lifetime of mousing around are the Pyramids, the Amazon, and A. J. Liebling's appetite. A truly great man with a knife and fork, Liebling the other day was observed demolishing a conch and emitting intermittent rumbles on the subject of journalism and the world at large.

Liebling is one of the few journalists left who has the courage of his own observations, which may or may not conform to popular opinion. As a matter of fact, they may not even conform to his own preconceptions which he will readily change to fit the facts. This is why Liebling went to Louisiana to bury Earl Long, the clown of Baton Rouge, and remained to praise him in a book called "The Earl of Louisiana." This is a perfectly marvelous book written in Liebling's muscular, deadpan style, which is of a flavor that is passing from the scene.

Well, style is perhaps not quite the word for it. It's really a combination of legwork, perception, native intelligence, and an inborn and rather refreshing cynicism which reminds me of the old Chicago school of journalism. For instance, commenting on Shep Morrison's campaign oratory on integration of schools — "provided through vigorous action and timely performance adequate and equal facilities for 235,000 Negroes in New Orleans."

Comments Liebling: "The grass-eaters consider 'adequate and equal' a sign of softness. 'Vigorous' is another word that Morrison uses too often. It has connotations of hard labor that displease voters in a warm climate. 'Aggressive' which has associations with violence goes down better."

How come, Mr. Liebling was asked, he wrote a book taking the unpopular view that Earl Long was a great man for Louisiana and for politics. "It's not a new view," grunted Liebling. "Professor Williams of Louisiana State is doing a big serious book on the importance of Long."

Liebling said he was first attracted to Long through careful reading of the newspapers which showed, buried in the story, that he was fighting for Negroes' rights. "I went down there because I thought if the guy on the right side is crazy, what are the guys on the wrong side? You see, anybody who fights the oil companies is crazy. Huey broke their power in Louisiana, although he didn't steal as much as most politicians down there. But Earl was funny. Earl could make you laugh."

Did Liebling think Louisiana politics was any grubbier than ours? "It's easier to understand than our politics. All politics are very much the same. Lebanon is very good training for Louisiana. You can also learn the Middle East from Louisiana. We have the same politics here as there but the things you steal here aren't the same things you steal there. Instead of oil, we have Title 1 deals. The principle—or rather lack of principle—is the same everywhere."

Still, if you want a portrait of how politics is conducted in the South in the most exquisite, wry detail, you better read the book which is — among other things — very, very funny.

Liebling, a great reporter, is a frequent critic of the press and, prodded to say something about the current state of journalism, he emitted: "It's terrible. I have a paperback coming out next fall called 'The Press Mess.' It's the publishers who are at fault. Just as television killed the fight game by killing off the small fight clubs. Same thing in the press with one ownership towns. You can't develop good reporters without competition."

The subject changed to fiction which is in the doldrums. "We are not in an age for introspection. This is an age where it is hard for a writer to fix the reader's mind on intimate details. The World War did a great deal, not to callous the people, but to make it difficult to communicate the troubles of the individual when there are great troubles for the mass of individuals."

"The novelist may never return. This is a journalist's and a historian's age. Novelists like Mauriac and Camus became journalists. No journalists become novelists. If Hemingway started today he would be writing fact."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

According to the "Dumas Dictionary of Cuisine," toasts were first drunk during the French Revolution. The word came from the English who, when they drank to anyone's health, put a piece of toast in the bottom of the beer pot. Whoever drank last got the toast.

One day Anne Boleyn, then England's reigning beauty, was taking a bath surrounded — I can't imagine why — by the lords of her suite. Each one gallantly took a glass, dipped it in the tub, and drank her health. All but one, that is, who was asked why he did not emulate their example. "I am waiting for the toast," he said.

After only three months on a job, a meek-looking little man tapped his employer for a raise.

"You haven't been here long enough," the employer reproved him. "First work yourself up a little."

"Are you kidding?" groaned the little man. "Look at me now. I'm shaking all over."

FCC Approves Transmitter For Midland

Housing Station Has Been Built

MIDLAND—The Federal Communications Commission has approved an application for a VHF transmitter which was sought by the MGW Television Association Inc. of here.

Subscribers of the association should be getting much better reception on their television sets within 10 days or two weeks, said a spokesman for the group.

He said the housing unit for the transmitter is located on the Clarence Miller Farm between here and Vale Summit. When the transmitter is received from the company it will be installed as soon as possible.

The equipment will convert the UHF frequency on Dan's Rock to VHF frequency for the local subscribers. The association will probably apply for two other channels in the future.

The officers of the association are William G. Kroll, president; John Yeager, vice president; J. Edwin Winters, secretary, and John Devlin Jr., treasurer.

The group formed last October and in the meantime the housing equipment was constructed. Funds were raised by public subscription.

There are about 175 subscribers in the Midland area. Word of the FCC approval was received yesterday from the office of U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall in Washington.

Barron Urges Action On W. Va. Economy

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's economic situation calls for "positive action...and demands that we fully recognize the terrible plight of the forgotten man caught in the jaws of an economic vise not of his making," Gov. W. W. Barron said Friday.

The governor hearkened back to the era of the Great Depression as he spoke before a meeting of the Charleston Life Underwriters Association. He said many of the problems of that period plague West Virginia today.

"But much has been accomplished," he said, pointing to the Emergency Employment program and to the work of the new State Department of Commerce in laying the groundwork for federal aid under the Area Redevelopment Act.

"West Virginia will get its full and proper share of the approximately $350 million available under the Area Redevelopment Act," he said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — When Barbara Stanwyck showed up bright and early at Columbia to start "Walk on the Wild Side" the morning after she won her Emmy, she was warmly greeted with a lot of gags.

Her make-up man Harry Marrett presented her with a half-dozen cans of metal polish and polishing cloths to keep her Emmy shining. And the wardrobe woman had a box of non-catch zippers!

Waiting to congratulate Missy was runner-up Donna Reed whose dressing room is next to Stanwyck's. And the place looked like a florist shop with bowls of gardenias (her favorites) and yellow roses from Charlie Feldman and Sam Briskin welcoming Barbara back to her old home lot.

Elizabeth Taylor is now well enough to discuss movies, but of course she will be tied up for months until "Cleopatra" is finished. At a surprise party given for her just before Eddie Fisher went to Las Vegas, she discussed with Jack Warner an idea he has for her to start in two pictures for him, possibly more. In fact, there probably will be an announcement forthcoming from the Warner Bros. studio.

I believe Eddie Fisher is mentioned as producer for one of the movies. However, Eddie has had such a big success in his night-club appearance at the Las Vegas Desert Inn I am inclined to believe he will want to continue his singing career. A friend of mine who saw him, said Eddie hasn't been as good in years.

Carry Back Cries To Capture Preakness Stakes Today

Seeks Second Leg In Turf's Triple Crown

Eight Rivals Vie For Honors; Crozier Is Second Pick

BALTIMORE (AP) — Carry Back comes out swinging Saturday for the big money in the $150,000-added Preakness Stakes, and a chance to gain a second leg on thoroughbred racing's elusive triple crown.

The sporting world is anxious to see whether the little dark brown colt with the long tail can match his thrilling Kentucky Derby score with a victorious gallop in Maryland's great 3-year-old classic. If he can put them back to back, it will be on to New York for the final jewel of the coveted triple, the $125,000 Belmont Stakes June 3. Only eight have done it, the last being Citation in 1948.

Eight rivals will be battling Carry Back in the second richest Preakness, a famed race which dates back to 1873.

Remains 6-5 Choice

Carry Back, owned by Mrs. Katherine Price of Miami, remained the 6 to 5 choice, while his shadow — Fred W. Hooper's Crozier — is next at 5 to 2.

In two Florida $100,000 races, Hialeah's Flamingo and Gulfstream's Florida Derby, Crozier got out in front, but came from behind Carry Back nailed him near the finish. Two weeks ago in the $163,000 Derby at Louisville, Crozier led again in the stretch, but "Tough and Tiny" swept past him in the final yards.

There were no surprises when the owners plunked down $500 each to make the official entry Friday morning. If they go to the post Saturday at approximately 4:45 p.m. EST, owners must get up another $1,000 apiece to start. That will mean a gross purse of $178,700, with $126,200 for the winner. Royal Orbit earned $136,200 from the $190,000 stake in 1959.

The field, in order of post position, is the Crimson King Farm's Crimson Fury, Boncriss Farm's Nashua Blue, Crozier, Carry Back, Ben Weiner's Orleans Dodge, Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster, Jacob Sher's Sherk, Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Dr. Miller.

All Carry 126 Pounds

All will carry 126 pounds in the 85th running of the mile and three sixteenths race, one sixteenth shorter than the Derby at Louisville.

J. Sellers will ride Carry Back. Bobby Ussery on Hitting Away, Braulio Baeza handles Crozier, with Herberto Hinojosa on Dr. Miller, Johnny Rotz on Globemaster, Sam Boulmetis on Sherk, Buck Thornburg on Nashua Blue, Willie Carstens on Crimson Fury, and George Hettinger on Orleans Dodge.

The weather man forecast sunshine with the temperature around 70 degrees. The track remains fast, but there is little chance of smashing Nashua's 1955 track and Preakness record of 1:54 3/5.

The Preakness will be broadcast and televised (CBS) from 4:39-5 p.m. EST, with the armed forces radio carrying the running to military posts around the world.

Banks' Double Defeats Cards

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ernie Banks' high infield pop-up dropped for a double Friday to score the only run of the game and enable the Chicago Cubs to break a three-game losing streak with a 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The pitching win went to Glen Hobbie, who gave up seven scattered singles. Ray Sadecki, who yielded only four hits, was the loser. Sadecki gave up two hits in the first inning when Al Heist led off for the Cubs with a single and stole second base. Banks lofted a high infield fly and shortstop Daryl Spencer parked under it but lost the ball in the sun. It dropped for a double, enabling Heist to score easily.

The victory was the second in six decisions for Hobbie and, for the Cubs, it was only their second win in the last 13 games. The Cardinals have lost five of their last six.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)

Willie Shoemaker Friday became the fourth jockey in thoroughbred racing history to ride 4,000 wins when he captured the third race at Hollywood Park aboard Guarantea.

The 4000th victory for the little rider came 12 years after he had ridden his first winner April 20, 1949, at Golden Gate fields. The winning mount was a claiming filly named Shafter V.

From that start, the El Paso, Tex., native has in 12 years and at the age of 29 become one of the all-time great riders of the turf and a millionaire from his earnings at the nation's racetracks.

Shoemaker had finished third in the first race with Epeban and second in the second on Sure Choice.

Three Home Permits Are Issued Here

Andrew B. Shaw, 9 Richard Way, LaVale, has been issued a permit to construct a frame dwelling at a cost of about $12,000.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, said the home will measure 26 by 42 feet, will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a basement.

Another permit was issued to Daniel A. Ferguson, Cresaptown, who plans to construct a brick dwelling at a cost of about $8,000.

The 40 by 28 foot home with 10-foot carpet will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a cellar.

Lewis A. Dayton, McCoolle, yesterday obtained a permit to build a 26 by 40 foot frame dwelling near McCoolle in Election District 31 for $11,000.

'Build, Build,' Governor Tawes Tells Engineers

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Friday told the State Society of Professional Engineers Maryland must "build, build, build" to keep pace with its rapid growth and development.

Tawes told a meeting of the professional organizations the state's $18.2 million capital improvements budget is an example of his administration's determination to keep pace with a growing Maryland.

The governor said, "all around us in Maryland, we see evidence of new vigor, new growth, new opportunities."

He said one of the state's major tasks is to knit together the local governments which have sprung from the urban sprawl of the past 30 years so "the entire community can act effectively as a single organization to solve the mutual problems of its parts."

The governor said he intends to appoint a committee shortly "to study and offer a solution to the problem in the Baltimore metropolitan area."

Prescription Still Needed For Paregoric

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Board of Health balked Friday at permitting the sale of paregoric, an opium derivative, without a written prescription.

Instead, the board postponed action until its June meeting and decided to study the existing laws on dispensing all narcotics.

Robert M. Brown, chief of the State Health Department's Bureau of Environmental Hygiene, proposed adding paregoric to those narcotics which already can be sold by oral prescription—a telephone call from a physician to a pharmacist.

"We are aware a certain amount of this is already going on by prior agreement between the physician and the pharmacist," he told the board. "It would in no way cause us to lose control."

Brown said it was 25 years ago that Maryland first began forbidding open sale of paregoric—frequently used for infants with colic.

"This has produced a very effective control," he said. "To the best of our knowledge, there are no paregoric addicts in our state. It has produced, however, an inconvenience to the public."

The first objection came from Dr. Aaron Deitz of Hyattsville, a board member. "I think it ought to be followed up by a written prescription," he said.

Later, Dr. Ralph J. Young of Baltimore, another board member, commented: "I don't think it ought to be done. After all, we're trying to cut down the use of narcotics."

Dr. Deitz also said there were a number of paregoric addicts in Maryland.

Brown said known violations should be prosecuted if the law is not relaxed. He said narcotics which already can be prescribed by telephone include codeine and ethelmorphine.

Earlier, the board approved these budget proposals for the fiscal year beginning July 1: Allegany County, $233,231, up $6,703 from the current year; Harford County, $228,227, up $24,394; Charles County, $115,278, up $14,532, and Baltimore City, $3,511,287 down $2,218.

Discussion of the budgets brought from board member A. L. Pennington Jr. the observation that he didn't feel some of the smaller counties needed a full-time health officer.

State Health Director Perry F. Prather said Maryland has had a health officer in each county since the 1930s but the trend is to have them serve more than one county where feasible.

Dr. Prather said this recently was done with Talbot and Dorchester counties and, "It has worked very well." But he said it has to be a gradual process.

"You can't just arbitrarily say (to a county) you're not going to have a health officer next week. You're going to combine with another county."

Dr. Prather said Charles County has had no health officer for the past two or three years.

Seven Receive RC Instructors Certificates

Water safety instructors' certificates have been received at the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross office, according to Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary.

Receiving the certificates are Miss Judith Ann Grimm, 760 Fayette Street; Kenneth Allen Moreland, 50 LaVale Court, LaVale; Andrew Charles Peterbink, 487 Fort Avenue; Roger Lester Powers, 5 Lyons Street, Ridgely; G. Victor Reuschlein, 12 Grant Drive, LaVale; Miss Sheila Kaye Umberger, 52 Cresap Drive, Bowling Green; and Mrs. Mary Turner Davis.

They received the certificates for completing a water safety course sponsored by the Red Cross. The course was given in two parts, each part approximately 15 hours long. Part one was the chapter's responsibility and was taught by John Morris Jr. and George Strachen, qualified Red Cross instructors.

The second part, including the final examination, was conducted by Easter Area and Harrell Dial, safety services representative, Alexandria, Va., was the instructor.

The courses were taught at the YMCA pool.

Mrs. Davis, who formerly served as water safety instructor for the District of Columbia chapter, took a renewal course for her certificate. She has also been an instructor in boating and canoeing and has completed the basic course in sailing.

Dwelling Permit Is Issued Here

Charles W. Redinger, Willowbrook Road, has been issued a permit to build a 28-by-50-foot brick dwelling at a cost of about $20,000.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners which issues home permits, said the dwelling will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a basement. The home will be constructed at 39a Willowbrook Road, about 800 feet off the highway.

Federal Help Is Asked On Labor Survey

Request Is Sent To Development Head

The Area Redevelopment Administration this week was asked to help the Cumberland area develop a comprehensive plan for economic development.

The request was made to William Batt Jr., administrator of the newly organized federal program by six organizations which are vitally interested in the economic development of Western Maryland.

A specific request was made for technical and financial assistance in making a study of the area's labor market and resources as part of a project to update a total resources study of this area made in 1952 by the U. S. Departments of Commerce and Labor.

The request was made by the Maryland Department of Economic Development, Board of Allegany County Commissioners, City of Cumberland, Western Maryland Central Labor Council, Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Cumberland Industrial Development Company.

Cite Local Effort

The citizens of Cumberland and Allegany County, Mr. Batt was told, have for some years been making an effort to reduce the substantial and persistent unemployment in the area, and need assistance in developing a plan for economic development which will help the area to attain that goal.

The petitioners said they believe the necessary organizations are in existence and that information to formulate such a plan is readily available.

Detailed information for industrial development purposes has been assembled by the CIDC and the C of C. Mr. Batt was told, and would be relatively complete with the addition of a study of the area's labor market and other resources.

The project, the organizations said, "should be completed at the earliest possible date. It would not only be a valuable tool in our industrial development effort but also valuable information to local and state agencies in planning and implementing their programs."

Is Formal Request

The letter constitutes an application for federal help toward the survey which would be made by the Maryland Department of Employment Security.

The survey would be designed to show the labor needs of existing industries, skills available from the unemployed labor force and the kinds of retraining which will be necessary to equip the unemployed with the skills which may be needed by new industries.

It is an outgrowth of a meeting held here May 10 as area leaders interested in the economic development met with federal and state officials to lay the groundwork for seeking assistance under the new Area Redevelopment Act.

Police Probing Fatal Accident In Eckhart

Mrs. Myrtle Pfaff, 47 Dies In 2-Car Crash

State Police are continuing an investigation into the death of Mrs. Myrtle Pfaff, 47, of Frostburg, who was killed in a two-car collision late Thursday night on U. S. Route 40 in front of the Eckhart School. Four others were hospitalized.

The victim was dead on arrival at Miners Hospital of injuries sustained in the two-car accident at 10:45 p. m.

The dead woman, who was the wife of James Conrad Pfaff, 53 McCulloh Street, was a passenger in the right front seat of a car driven by her daughter, Mrs. Margaret E. Lloyd, 2, also of 53 McCulloh Street.

Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Lloyd; her mother-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor Lloyd, 48, of 107 McCulloh Street, a passenger in the same car; Richard Daniel Abe, 24, of 252 Elder Street, city; and John Robert Boone, 26, of 419 Grand Avenue, who were traveling in the other car. The four injured persons are reported in "fair" condition, attaches said last night.

Headon Collision

The state trooper said the Lloyd car was traveling toward Frostburg when it was hit head on by the other car occupied by the two local men, who apparently were en route home.

An initial investigation disclosed that Abe was driving east on the highway at an apparent excessive rate of speed in the wrong lane of traffic, police said.

The younger Mrs. Lloyd sustained lacerations of the face and body and possible internal injuries; her mother-in-law suffered a severe laceration of the right leg and possible internal injuries.

Abe suffered severe leg injuries and Boone sustained a possible fractured skull and severe lacerations of the head and face.

The two men were thrown from their car for a distance of about 35 to 40 feet, according to the trooper, who said they had to be carried up a steep embankment near the scene of the collision.

No charges have been preferred pending the completion of the investigation, Trooper Stakem indicated.

Funeral Tomorrow

Mrs. Pfaff was a daughter of Mrs. Mary Davis Perio, Canton, Ohio, and the late Thomas Davis.

Surviving, besides her husband and daughter, are a son, Thomas G. Pfaff, at home; five sisters, Mrs. Clifton Ward, Eurichville, Ohio; Mrs. Earl Burkett, Canton, Ohio; Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Wellsburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Helen Winterworth, Weirton, W. Va., and Mrs. James Cline, Cumberland; a brother, James Davis, Canton, and a grandchild.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home, Frostburg, where services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. by Rev. William E. Price. Burial will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Blowtorch Sets Fire To Roof

West Side Fire Company was called to the home of Thomas N. Berry, 722 Washington Street, yesterday at 4:07 p. m. after fire broke out in a section of the roof over the garage.

Firemen said a blowtorch being used to remove paint ignited wisps of straw left by birds and set fire to part of the roof. The blaze was brought under control in about 50 minutes.

A "fly-in" which had been planned for next month by the Cumberland Flying Association has been rescheduled.

During a meeting Thursday night at the airport here they decided to hold it on August 13 with August 20 being a rain date.

Brotherhood To Meet

Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes will hold its regular meeting Sunday at 2 p. m. (EST) at the Labor Temple, 125 South Liberty Street, according to Walter House, secretary-treasurer of Cumberland Lodge 1028.

Myers was in court attending a hearing of his 12-year-old daughter on a charge of being a delinquent minor when the incident occurred.

Magistrate Fatkin ordered her committed to the House of Good Shepherd. After the girl was sentenced, the father created a disturbance and threatened the court magistrate.

Myers had to be restrained by Capt. James E. Van, who had been a witness in the case. Myers was taken to jail and was returned to Juvenile Court yesterday afternoon to be tried on the breach of order charge.

A detainer warrant also was placed against Myers for non-support of several other children who are in foster homes.

Hercules Powder Company scientists have revealed a method for building a super solid propellant booster capable of launching a vehicle such as the three-man space craft "Apollo" on lunar or planetary missions.

Speaking before a meeting of the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Rocket Society, a team of rocket specialists outlined their company's proposal for a multi-million-pound thrust booster designed to send this country's planetary exploration vehicle hurtling into space. Test firing of the proposed vehicle could be accomplished within 15 months with the unit available for flight within 24 months. Development of such a booster would accelerate the space schedule and provide a backup program for liquid boosters now under development, they said.

A. F. Giacco of Hercules' Chemical Propulsion Division said Hercules technology has obtained the highest mass fraction and highest specific impulse systems in the field of solid propellant rocketry. With this background, Mr. Giacco said the company could build a booster rocket capable of developing several million pounds of thrust. This booster could then be combined in clusters to provide first and second stages for manned lunar or planetary flights.

The Hercules scientists proposed what they call the sectional charge approach. In this, a number of propellant cylinders each approximately 170 inches in diameter, eight feet long, and weighing about 100,000 pounds would be prepared. The final rocket would then be constructed at the test or firing site by stacking the cylinders one atop the other and then wrapping the entire propellant system with a lightweight case of Spirallay, a unique structural material spun of glass fibers and bonded with epoxy resin.

The resulting rocket, approximately 50 feet high, weighing over 30 tons, would be clustered with six similar units, thereby creating a boost stage providing the tremendous power needed to launch a manned space craft. A second stage could be constructed in the same fashion by clustering three additional rockets around one in the center.

This vehicle would employ a propellant successfully demonstrated many times in other programs. This propellant is well known, reliable, and comparatively inexpensive, yet delivers a specific impulse among the highest of any solid propellant measured to date.

The proposed means of manufacturing the propellant in segments, erecting the unit at the site, then integrally winding the case around the propellant grain are concepts that have been demonstrated in smaller units.

The Hercules team, composed of Mr. Giacco, John A. Scherer, and Richard E. Young, demonstrated by the use of working models the Hercules concept.

Two Injured In Crash At Grahamtown

A Frostburg mother and daughter were injured about 5 p. m. yesterday in a two-car collision at the intersection of First and Armstrong streets in Grahamtown, police said.

Mrs. Marguerite Irene Chambers, 36, of 92 Wright Street, Frostburg, driver of one of the cars, was admitted to Miners Hospital suffering from a fractured right collarbone. Her condition was reported as "good" last night.

Theresa Colleen Chambers, her daughter, sustained a laceration of her head, was treated at the hospital and released.

Uninjured was Frank Flowers Gregg of Box 368, Edwin, Pa., driver of the other car.

Trooper J. H. Sweitzer of the State Police said that Gregg was proceeding south on Armstrong Street and failed to grant the right of way to the Chambers car which was traveling east on First Street, where the cars collided.

Two Prisoners Still At Large After Jailbreak

Two Young Escapees Are Recaptured

Two of the four prisoners who escaped early yesterday morning from the Tucker County jail in Parsons, W. Va. were still at large last night, according to Sheriff James D. Phillips, who said one of them "could be dangerous."

Lawrence M. Harrah and Harold J. Wade, both 17, were apprehended by Trooper D. R. Wade in the Keyser Ridge area of Garrett County and were taken to the county jail at Oakland, where they were lodged last night.

A spokesman at the jail said the two youths won't waive extradition and "didn't want to go back to West Virginia unless they had to."

State Police said the youths had taken a car in Parsons and abandoned it on Meadow Mountain, then walked back to Keyser Ridge, where they took the car in which they were arrested.

Woman Does Voice Take For Boy Scout Leader

They do the craziest things on "The Flintstones," the animated cartoon series on ABC-TV Friday nights.

Recently the producers needed a voice for a character named "Little Hugo," a boy scout leader. So, instead of hiring a male to do the vocal, they brought in a woman, an actress from San Francisco. Who ever heard of a woman boy scout leader?

Columnist's Daughter

Karyn Kupcinet, daughter of syndicated columnist Irv Kupcinet of the Chicago Sun-Times, has been given her second TV role, a part in the "Surfside 6" segment, "Pattern for a Fra.ne."

Professional Crew

Warner Bros hired a professional shiprigging firm to outfit a 60-foot rum running schooner of the 1920's for "Right Off the Boat," a two-part drama in the "Roaring 20's" series.

Human View Of Policemen Aim Of Show

By CHARLES J. LEAVY

When watching "The Asphalt Jungle" next time, take notice of three portraits hanging on the wall of Deputy Police Commissioner Matthew Gower (played by Jack Warden). To anyone who is familiar with most large police forces, these pictures are familiar sights.

To most, the idea of sentiment entering the lives of policemen seems incongruous. Because of the very nature of their job, most policemen invariably become hardened and impersonal. However, the majority of law enforcement officers are dedicated public servants.

When a crooked policeman is uncovered, it is a reflection on the entire force. Heroism and honesty are quickly forgotten, but news of a bad cop remains, and all policemen feel the accusing eye.

So it is quite natural that the memory of heroic and honorable police is perpetuated by their fellow officers.

"The Asphalt Jungle," set against the background of a modern metropolis, attempts to get to the inside of the policemen's problems as people, their relationships among themselves.

As producer Arthur Lewis explains, "If the average man ever does think of a cop as a person, the only things that seem to come to mind are heroism and corruption. Very little of all that lies between is ever seen or heard by the public. This along with 'big crime' is the area we intend to exploit in 'The Asphalt Jungle'."

Arch Johnson who plays the role of assistant to Jack Warden says, "Policemen probably take more risks for less money than any other group of people."

Johnson's evaluation comes from a first-hand knowledge of the job, of the responsibility and danger faced. While a reporter for the Associated Press and the Philadelphia Inquirer, he "followed policemen around enough beats to know how they work and what they think and feel."
